Book Fair

1 p.m.

Anda Peterson

Walks With Yogi

University of South Florida writing instructor Anda Peterson takes guidance from the Buddha and a host of wise teachers to embark on what she calls an “enlightenment experiment.” In Walks With Yogi she sets out to practice non-attachment and discover a life of peace and fulfillment.

1:45 p.m.

Michael Ciafone

Silent Cries

Michael Ciafone presents Silent Cries about his journey from having a traumatic brain injury at age 10 through the next 27 years of his life, not knowing what was wrong. Writing about his experiences has been his passion and survival method.

2:30 p.m.

Patti Wilson Byars

Separate Fountains

Florida State University teacher Patti Wilson Byars takes a first hand look in Separate Fountains at a deplorable era in American history she actually lived through. She writes about a town where blacks and whites didn't mix – a place where magnolias were in full bloom but so was bigotry.

3:15 p.m.

Ruth Whitney

The Heart of Jesus' Teaching

Retired USF instructor Ruth Whitney in The Heart of Jesus' Teaching writes a hopeful and daring book, calling on Christians to re-awaken to Jesus' original message. Whitney, a theologian, emphasizes that the “presence of the divine is within us.”
